Bruce,

I would appreciate your passing my appreciation to all those who have been involved in redesigning the PDB. I am impressed at how quickly NFAC has met this challenge, including the additional demands on analysts for broader coverage. The new PDB represents a significant departure from the publication we have been sending the President for the last three years. You and your staff are to be commended for your quick and creative response to the President's request for a much different kind of daily intelligence publication. You and your staff have done a fine job and I thank you for it.
